Tonopah, Nev., Jan. 7.—If it could be done, Mrs. Holley Heisner-Dominy of Tonapah, would attempt to procure a Carnegie medal for a stray collie which recently saved her from being burned to death.

An hour or two after she retired she was awakened by the dog pulling on the bed covers, and discovered that the front part of the house was in flames.

RELIEF PLAN APPROVED

House Committee Favors $100,000,000 Appropriation for Food

Washington, Jan. 7.—President Wilson's request that Congress provide $100,000,000 for relief work in Europe, outside of Germany, was approved yesterday by the House appropriations committee. Chairman Sherley announced he would report a bill today and seek its prompt passage.

Although the President is given discretionary authority in the expenditure of the fund, the bill drafted by the House Committee provides that the money may be used as a revolving fund until June 30, 1919, and that while food shall be given free to starving people unable to buy it "the expenditures shall be reimbursed so far as possible by the Governments, or sub-divisions thereof, or the peoples to whom the relief is furnished."

The Food Administration informed the committee that the $100,000,000 would be American's contribution to a common fund, to which England, France and possibly Italy would contribute, and the bill recognizing this, declares the appropriation is "for participation of the United States in furnishing the foodstuffs."

W. A. Glasgow, of the Food Administration, said Herbert C. Hoover, who has made a survey of the European situation, had cabled that without immediate help the "situation is hopeless."

ORDERS FOR WHISKY

Special Grand Jury of Richmond Will Give Attention to Prescriptions January 20.

Liquor prescriptions will receive the attention of a Hustings Court grand Jury January 20, it was definitely stated yesterday by Commonwealth's Attorney George E. Wise, at whose instance all of the orders filled at the license drug store in Richmond have been delivered to the court.

There is a strong feeling among prohibition forces that some physicians overstepped the law in issuing prescriptions for whisky. This feeling has been strengthened by reports of great quantities of the stuff sold at the dispensary and by the presence, frequently during the influenza epidemic, of long lines of prescription holders waiting to be served.

It is stated, however, that the Commonwealth's Attorney has any definite information upon which to proceed. He stated yesterday that he had been too busy with the trial of crimnal cases during the last several weeks to give much time ot the problem.

SEAMAN ASK CAPTAIN'S PAY

Hamburg Overrun by Unemployed, Work for Pittance

Hamburg, Jan. 7.—The Hamburg seamen are now demanding the same wages as those paid the ship's captain, other officers and machinists. They are willing, however, that the captain of a vessel be given an extra allowance of $25 monthly to pay for clean linen, trousers, pressing, etc. In addition the men demand an eight-hour day, which calls for increased life and property insurance for the shipping concerns.

The new wage schedules represent a four-fold increase of the peace-time figure.

The objection of the men to former naval officers enlisting in the merchant marine have only been overcome by the determination of the shipowners to stand by the former men of the navy. The latter now are freely reporting for subordinate positions on cargo boats. Hamburg is overrun by unemployed seamen, who are willing to work ashore for their lodging and board.

The passenger liners here are being held in readiness for the resumption of overseas traffic, it is said. The Hamburg-American Line has increased its fleet by the purchase of the Woermann Company liners.

PEACE PARLEYS

Paris, Jan. 7.—The beginning of the Peace Conference appears to be definitely set for January 13. Selection of a secretary general for the conference, one of the big posts, is yet in abeyance. It is ikely that the man for this important place is Dutasta, French minister to Switzerland. The other powers have been asked by France if he would be acceptable to them.

It is believed that the honor of presiding at the conference will be "passed around." No doubt it will begin under the presidency of Clemenceau, but he will frequently leave the chair to talk, so in the course of the proceedings, it is likely that British, Italians and Americans all will have a chance to conduct the meetings.

Paris, Jan. 7.—President Poincare will probably visit the United States late in June or early in July. This announcement was made by the President himself yesterday afternoon.

When it was suggested that the greatest reception ever accorded a foreign ruler was awaiting him, the President said:

"I must return President Wilson's visit. I am not looking for the honors of a reception. I simply wish to thank Americans for what they have done for the cause of France."

ANARCHY IN BERLIN

Spartacus and Government Factions Engage in Civil War—Banks and Public Buildings Seized—Liebknecht Leading.

Munich, Jan. 7.—Complete anarchy reigns in Berlin, according to telephone messages received from there.

Civil war has broken out between the Spartacus and government factions. Thousands of workers are fighting in the streets. The rattle of machine guns can be heard throughout the city.

Spartacides have barricaded themselves in many of the public buildings, and are reported to hold all the banks

Telephone messages also said that government forces were planning to storm the central police station Monday afternoon.

Karl Liebknecht is reported to be personally leading the Spartacides.

Hundreds of persons are fleeing from the city.

The fighting was preceded by counter demonstrations in which a great proportion of the population joined. The rival elements bore placards with the legends: "Down with the government!" and "Down with the Spartacus!"

The Spartacides then massed in the Tiergarten and Zoological Gardens. Shots were fired and the fighting began. The Spartacides seized all telegraph offices. Shops are said to be closed and buisness is at a standstill.

Copenhagen, Jan. 7.—The central offices of the Wolff Bureau, semi-official news agency of Germany, last night sent the following message to the Copenhagen office, which was received today:

"Central Berlin has been occupied. Send telegram to Frankort temporarily."

Previous dispatches reported the Spartacides had seized the Wolff Bureau and the principal Berlin newspapers, including the Socialist organ, Vorwaerts

TWICE FACED FIRING SQUAD

Officer Who Refused Information Dared Germans to Kill Him

Bellefonte, Pa., Jan. 7.—Taken out on two separate occasions and stood up before a firing squad to be shot was the experience of Lieutenant E. R. Taylor, of this place, while a prisoner of war in Germany, according to a letter received from him by his wife, written since his arrival back in France. The lieutenant wrote that for some reason or other the German did not like him and in addition to offering him almost every indignity imaginable and giving him the worst of treatment, they singled him out as one from whom to learn military information.

Failing to extract anything of value from him they took him out twice to be shot but he dared them to shoot and the order to fire never was given. The ony consolation the lieutenant has is the fact that on July 15, the day he was taken prisoner, he killed eight Germans and wounded another before they captured him.

ONE LANGUAGE, ONE FLAG

Last Message of Theodore Roosevelt—Plea for National Loyalty.

New York Jan. 7.—A plea for continuation of the fight for Americanism was Col Roosevelt's last message to the American people. It was read Sunday night at an all-American benefit concert in the Hippdrome by Henry C. Quimby, of the American Defense Society, who voiced the Colonel's regret at his inability to be present in person because of illness.

"I cannot be with you and so all I can do is to wish you Godspeed," wrote the Colonel. "There must be no sagging back in the fight for Americanism just because the war is over.

"There can be no divided allegiance here. Any man who says he is an American but something else also isn't an American at all. We have room for but one flag, the American flag, an dthis excludes the red flag which symbolizes all wars against liberty and civilization just as much as it excludes any foreign flag of a nation to which we are hostile.

"We have room for but one language here, and that is the English language, for we intend to see that the crucible turn our people out as Americans, of American nationality, and not as dwellers in a polyglot boarding house; and we have room for but one soul loyalty, and that is loyalty to the American people."

RICHMOND THEATRE

One of the most remarkable subjects ever treated by a dramatist is that adopted by William J. Hurlbut for his stirring drama The Strange Woman," which will be at the Richmond tonight.

Originally produced in New York on the dramatic stage, it played for one whole season on Broadway and with equal success the following year on the road.

INGOMAR "MISSING"

"Missing," a picturization of Mrs. Humphrey Ward's famous novel, will be seen at the Ingomar tonight

This is indeed a master production from every standpoint. The story deals with the fortunes of a British army officer and his bride. He is reported missing, but subsequently regains the British lines, his mind and body wrecked by shock and mental suffering and ultimately is restored to health when his wife sings a pathetic love song which they had often sung together during their courting days.

COMMUTERS' TROUBLES

During the past few weeks people who reside in this city and work in Washington, as well as many others, have been delayed in returning to this city late in the evening. Often electric trains come to a halt several miles north of Alexandria, while others are stalled after having reached the city, and passengers, who may be squares from their homes, leave the cars and proceed on foot to their several objectives. Shortly after seven o'clock this morning a north bound train stalled when it reached the curve at the intersection of Prince and Royal streets, and remained there for some time. Such incidents have long since become such as may be expected in making the trip from this city to Washington or in returning from the capital city.

Such conditions greatly inconvenience people who allow themselves but thirty-five or forty minutes in which to reach the departments or other places in Washington where they are employed, and all interested earnestly hope the trouble will be remedied as soon as possible.

Alexandria has during the past twenty years enjoyed what the people clamored for during the olden times, easy communication with Washington. But the stoppage of trains in transit is justly deplored.

An article in a Washington afternoon paper today tells of serious inconvenience to the people of the capital city this morning when street cars came to a standstill. Thousands were forced to abandon the cars and proceed on foot. It was said by officials of the railway company that "feeder troubles" at Bennings, where the electricity for all the street railways and the electric railway to this city is obtained, caused the halt in traffic.

It is suggested that the demands upon Banning are great and that at times it is impossible to furnish a satisfactory current to all the roads depending upon the plant at that place.

THE LATE COL. ROOSEVELT

One of the things that is believed to have contributed more than any other to Colonel Roosevelt's breakdown and death, was the death last fall of his son, Lieut. Quentin Roosevelt, the aviator, in action in France. Proud of his heroic son's achievements, Colonel Roosevelt bore up under the sorrow of his death with a fortitude that was in keeping with his spirit in public life. Friends said that while the father "did not carry his heart on his sleeve" he suffered most poignant griefs in silence and tried to forget them by plunging harder than ever into his work. The death of Quentin, however, and the injury to Archie were serious blows to the Colonel's vitality, his physicians said.

Quentin was killed in combat July 17, 1918, at Chamery, France. For some weeks previous to confirmation of his death there were reports that he had possibly been taken prisoner by the Germans and might turn up alive. This suspense added to the distress of the Roosevelt household.

When the sad news finally was officially confirmed, General Pershing cabled Colonel Roosevelt that if desired the body of Quentin would be removed to America. France meanwhile had paid the fullest honors to the dead aviator and the Roosevelt family declined to accept the War Department's offer.

A loss of equilibrium, was suffered by Col. Roosevelt a year ago, as a result of operations on his ears for abscesses. He was compelled to go to Roosevelt Hospital for treatment for what was described as throat trouble, but a few days later admission was made that the primary trouble was due to abscesses. An operation on his thigh and ears followed.

But the poison contracted into his system while tracing the course of the River of Doubt was never entirely eradicated, and it is this toxic invasion which his friends hold responsible for the sapping of his vital forces. He carried to his death a bullet fired into his chest by a would-be assassin in Milwaukee some years ago.

Colonel Roosevelt was preaching preparedness long before it was generally believed that the United States would enter the war, and when the historic step was taken his four sons and a son-in-law were among the first to volunteer for military service.

THE LATE COUNT HERTLING

As a contemporary says the late Count George F. von Hertling, German Imperial Chancellor, was a disappointment and a failure in the task to which he was assigned, but he had a task which was impossible of execution. Even Bismarck would have failed could he have been called from the grave at such a crisis to take the helm. He could not reconcile the irreconcilable, he could not perform the unperformable. He was a failure because the German Empire and the German system had proved a failure and was past mending. He was called a reactionary in his official policy and was accused of going over to the Junkers. But, in all probability, he had little choice. Even if he had been willing to listen to the people and defy the Emperor, Ludendorff and all the rest of the old regime, he did not dare. He was a sailing master whose route was marked out for him.

Here was another professor who had been called to the wheel of government. He was probably far more learned than our own Professor. And yet the effect of learning on him appears to have been to close his mind rather than open it, to narrow rather than widen his intellectual perceptions. He could see the world only through German glasses, and he could see so further than German boundaries. Our Professor, on the contrary, was quickened in vision and universal sympathy by his studies.

After all, the explanation is natural. The influence of free institutions makes the spirit of liberty the spirit of learning. Our universities emancipate and humanize the mind. If Woodrow Wilson had been born in Germany and educated in the atmosphere of the German schools, might he not have been a Von Hertling? Possibly not, because there have been independent minds in Germany, which have refused to bow to the tyranny of German Kultur. But it was easier to be a Woodrow Wilson here than in the poisoned air of Prussian Imperialism.

KILLED THE GOOSE

The world was the goose which was laying golden eggs for Germany, but Germany wanted all the eggs at once. As the President said in Rome, "if Germany had waited a single generation she would have had a complete commercial empire of the world."

In this connection the Philadelphia Record says: Indeed, she needed no such amount of time; half a generation would have completed the German commercial conquest of the world. But William and his officers, panting for distinction, and his greedy hordes of industrial magnates, wanted to get at once all the wealth that the rest of the world would have earned for Germany in coming years. If Germany had only bought a copy of Aesop's Fables and pondered over the golden eggs, it would be richer and happier now."

CHINA RESENTFUL TO JAPAN

Strong Feeling For Abrogation of Treaty Imposed in 1915

Peking, Jan. 7.—A demand is expressed by the Chinese-owned Peking Leader that the Chino-Japanese treaty of 1915, embodying the 21 demands made upon China by Japan, be abrogated. The newspaper contends that the treaty should be abrogated, "as honesty and justice alike demand that Japan enter the Versailles council chamber with clean hands and that China, equally with other States, shall be free and unfettered to develop along her own natural lines."

The Leader also suggests that the treaties of Brest-Litovsk and Bucharest likewise be abrogated.

A Japanese newspaper received here contains an article by a Japanese publicist advocating a Chino-Japanese alliance in view of the growth of the French, British and American armies and navies.

BOLSHEVIKI PLATFORM

Sparticus Group Led by Dr. Karl Liebknecht, Gathering Force

Washington, Jan. 7.—According to officials of the State Department, the platform of the German Bolsheviki, or Spartacus group, led by Dr. Karl Liebknecht, which is now growing stronger, is as follows:

1. Immediate measures for protection of revolution. Disarmament of police and new officers. Seizure of all stores of arms and ammunition. Organization of workmen's militia and red guard. Abolition of right of command of officers. Establishment of revolutionary tribunal for trial of Hohenzollerns, Ludendorff, Hindenburg, Tirpitz and all counter-revolutionary conspirators. Immediate seizure of all food supplies for people.

2. Political and social measures. Abolition of all separate states and organization of single Socialist republic. Abolition of all parliaments and municipal councils and their replacement with soviets. Election of central soviet council as sureme legislative and executive power. Social legislation with six-hour day as maximum. Thorough reform of food system, public health and education in spirit of revolution.

3. Economic measures Confiscation of all dynastic fortunes. Annulment of all public debts and war loans, except small subscriptions. Seizure of real estate holdings. Operation of farms by socialistic co-operative societies. Seizure of all banks, mines and industrial plants, confiscation of all fortunes exceeding fixed amount. Government control of public utilities.

4. International measures. Immediate resumption of connections with fraternal parties in foreign countries to place Socialist revolution on international basis and insure peace by international fraternization and revolutionary uprising of world workers.

State Department officials also declare the rise of the Spartacides to power would result in the proclamation of Liebknecht as president, the immediate secession of the South German States and war between South and North Germany.

KILL MAN AND STEAL CASH

Hold Up Eight Players With Revolvers and Get Away With Money After Shooting One.

Philadelphia, Jan. 7.—Two masked men burst into the house of Nicolo Lumi at No. 1411 South Juniper street, at 2 o'clock Sunday morning and pointed revolvers at the heads of eight men who were playing cards in the dining-room. After the cardplayers had obeyed the bandit's summons for them to held up their hands, one of the men kept them covered while the other raked in a considerable sum of money lying on the table.

Angered at seeing his money stolen, Francisco Ippolito, 46 years old made a move as though to prevent the bandits from taking it. At his first movement the bandit fired, wounding Ippolito in the groin. He fell to the floor, while the two bandits continued gathering in the money. Still pointing their guns at their victims, the bandits backed out of the house and escaped.

Lumi telephoned to the Thirty-fourth district police station, and Lieutenant Carlin and Sergeant Milburn went to the house. They took Ippolito to St.Agnes' Hospital, where he died two hours later. They also examined all the men who had been in the house at the time and got a good description of the bandits. Search was made for them all day Sunday but without success.

COLD TAKES LIVES OF TWO

Man Caught in Door Frozen and a Woman Perishes in Snow

Pittsburgh, Jan. 7.—Stuck fast in a jagged hole he had chopped in the front door of his home in Braddock, Robert Colbert, aged 70, perished in the cold Sunday morning. His cramped body, frozen stiff, remained caught in the broken door until it was discovered by passers-by.

Colbert's wife went to Johnstown Saturady to visit relatives. Arriving home late Sunday night or early in the morning, he either could not find the keyhole or by some mischance locked himself out. Obtaining a hatchet, he smashed the lower panel of the door and then tried to squeeze through the hole. He caught in such a way that he could neither advance nor withdraw.

Shenandoah, Pa., Jan. 7.—Mrs. Catherine Posesky, 49 years old, was found frozen to death in the snow on the outskirts of Turkey Run, a suburb, early Sunday morning. It is said she wandered from her home while despondent.

RAW MATERIAL PROBLEM

No Understanding as to Supply for Germany and Austria

Paris, Jan. 7.—No understanding has been reached as yet among the Allies concerning the supply of raw materials to Germany and Austria. The arrangement providing that the United States shall feed the Central Powers carries with it no general understanding relating to raw materials, although it is likely Germany will be required to furnish coal to Europe in exchange for food. Until a full survey is made of conditions in the former Central Empires it will be impossible to determine what supplies are required for the resumption of their industries.

Assistance to the Central Powers in the way of supplies for their industries, however, is regarded in well-informed circles as inevitable by reason of the threat to the world's peace of an idle population.

HIDE MAY BE RETAINED

But Soldiers Must Give up Their Pants in Four Months.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—Enlisted men of the army who have been worrying about what part of their uniforms Uncle Sam wants returned within a period of four months after discharge may now rest easy.

Before settling back to solid comfort however, they would do well to provide themselves with an extra pair of trousers, at least since Uncle Sam insists on getting back the breeches every man wears away from a camp.

The regulations require that every enlisted man, within the four month period, return one suit of uniform outer clothing. This language as construed by General March, chief of staff, in an order made public, includes one hat a hat cord, one flannel shirt, one service coat and ornaments, one pair of breeches, one pair of shoes, one pair of leggins, one waist belt, one slicker and one overcoat.

This leaves a discharged soldier his own skin plus a suit of underwear and a pair of socks. These he may retain without fear of punishment.

The ornaments referred to are the insignia of the soldier's service and of course do not include the Croix de Guerre, the Distinguished Service Cross and other decorations earned in battle.

BRYAN ALMOST "PINCHED"

Commoner Mistaken for Burglar While in a Baltimore Garage

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 7.—William Jennings Bryan has just missed being forced to march into the arms of a policeman with his hands above his head and a man with a revolver behind him.

He was mistaken for "Raffles," the famous Forest Park burglar. Only the timely arrival of George W. Crabbe, superintendent of the anti-saloon league of Maryland, saved him.

J. Edward Custy, sales manager of a big commercial house, walked into his garage, at 3516 Sprindale avenue, Forest Park, Sunday night and found a heavily-built man there a stranger in the neighborhood.

"Raffles," at last.

That was Custy's first thought. He saw himself being congratulated by all his neighbors.

"Who are you?" asked Custy, watching the stranger keenly.

"I'm William Jennings Bryan," was the answer.

Perhaps, said Custy.

The stranger turned down the collar of his coat. It happened that Custy had not met Bryan before.

Then Crabbe, who keeps his machine in Custy's garage, walked in and Mr. Custy and Mr. Bryan shook hands and the former apologized.

WILSON BACK IN PARIS

He Will Resume Conferences Preparatory to Peace Congress

Paris, Jan. 7.—President Wilson returned to Paris at 8 o'clock this morning. There were no formalities over his arrival and he proceeded to the Murat residence for a series of conferences which will begin to give concrete form to the work of the Peace Congress.

According to present plans, the President intends to leave Europe about February 12 for the United States.

The President not only intends to be in Washington for the closing sessions of the present Congress but to deliver several addresses concerning the settlement of the war and the establishment of a peace.

VIRGINIA NEWS

Richmond's new million dollar railway station was formally opened yesterday when the Washington Special on the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad left the new station. With the opening of the new station those at Elba and Byrd streets will abandoned.

Joseph Devine, Richmond, has appealed to the police of Wilmington, Del., for the aid of four officers to assist him in collecting $25,000,000 from the city of Richmond for placing a spell on him. Joseph claims that he is swelling up on account of the spell and would have burst, had he not "third-degreed" it and gone to Wilmington. He is held for examination.

Police of Richmond are directing their efforts in solving the James River murder mystery to a trunk which has remained unclaimed at the baggage station since December 17. The identification tag has been removed, apparently by force, and police believe the trunk will disclose the name of the woman whose body was found a week ago in a lonely spot beside the river. So far baggage men are unable to give any account of how the trunk reached the station.

$1,000 CRUCIFIX SOLD FOR $2

Highly Cherished Church Emblem Found in Second-Hand Store

New York, Jan. 7.—Detective James H. Fitzgerald, of the lost property bureau, was in a second-hand art store on Sixth avenue the other day when his eye alighted on a crucifix three feet long, made of bronze gold and ivory, which the dealer told him he had bought for $2. The detective's suspicions were aroused, and at headquarters he found the crucifix corresponded to the description of one reported as having been stolen from the Episcopal Church of St. Mary of the Sea, on Forty-sixth street near Sixth avenue.

The crucifix, valued at more than $1,000, was taken from the church on the night of December 26. It had hung in the church for many years and was highly cherished.

WOULD RESTORE KAISER

Strong Movement on Foot to Replace Wilhelm on Imperial Throne

Amsterdam, Jan. 7.—A strong movement is developing in Germany to replace the former Kaiser on the throne. All non-Socialist newspapers are now referring to him not as the "former Kaiser," but as "Kaiser Wilhelm."

Addresses of sympathy have been circulated throughout Germany for signatures to be sent to his exile at Amerongen, on January 27, Wilhelm's birthday.

The Deutsche Tages Zeitung (Count Zu Reveltlaw's pan-German organ) is agitating for the creation of a Hohenzollern state. Handsomely paid bands of propagandists are preaching in the villages:

"Compare Germany under Wilhelm and Germany under Ebert."

They predict epidemics, foreign occupation and bad crops unless the Kaiser returns. Many Hollanders and other neutrals returning from Germany tell of a change in the people's attitude toward the former monarch.

"Our poor Kaiser, we have been unfair to him," is a general saying.

All this seems to show that very many people in Germany, having had a taste of republicanism are already sick of it.

Kaiserism will not be dead in Germany until the head of the Hohenzollerns is sent to some military island guarded by allied cruisers in some distant part of the world, instead of Amerongen, where he is only some hours' motor run from his former realm.

The chief counts against the former Kaiser were Germany's defeat and his flight to Holland. Every one excepting the Socialists is now trying to convince the world that the flight was inspired only by loftiest patriotism, while the entente "fable" of Germany's defeat has long since been disposed of by the Socialist government themselves, so the imperial slate sems to be wiped clean again.

There are two obstacles to be overcome—the army and the workers. But the overwhelming majority of the army is really pro-Kaiser and there is in labor's denunciation of imperialism, which they served with such amazing devotion only three months ago.

While the former Kaiser is permitted to remain in Holland the German republic is unsafe.

PASSED SLAIN MAN BY

Party of Motorists Saw Beaten Chauffeur on Road

Wilmington Del., Jan. 7.—Because two young women and a man declined to stop at the sight of an injured or dead man on the Edge Moor road, outside the city limits, on New Year's night, it is probable that the mysterious murder of Howard M. Lacey, a chauffeur, who was beaten to death in his taxicab, never will be solved. It was learned yesterday that two sisters, living in Bellefonte, near here, with a young man of Marshallton, motored past the place where Lacey's body was found the next morning, and in the glare of the headlight of their car, saw a man with blood streaming down his face, reclining against a rock along the roadside. This was at 11 o'clock on New Year's night. Appearances indicated, the police say, that the chauffeur was alive then, although terribly beaten.

The evidence provided by the two sisters, however, fixes the time that the crime was committed as between 10:45 and 11 o'clock that night, easily the most important discovery yet made in the baffling case. At 10:25 o'clock Lacey was seen at Fourth and Walnut streets driving west on Fourth. He could not have reached the spot on the Edge Moor road with careful driving on a rainy night, such as that night was, in less than 20 minutes. The young women must have passed Lacey a few minutes after he was attacked, presumably either to silence him forever and shield the reputation of a woman believed to have been in the car, or because he tried to interfere to save the woman from attack by a man companion.

As a matter of fact, narrowing the time in which the crime was committed to a quarter of an hour is the only discovery yet made by the detectives. They are absolutely at sea regarding the motive and pretend that they even are not convinced a woman was in the car.

This latter attitude is regarded as subterfuge, however, for all indications are that a woman was one of Lacey's passengers when he was beaten to death.

CHILD SUFFOCATES

Crawls Under Bed After Setting Fire to Room With Matches

Pottstown, Pa., Jan. 7.—Igniting the bed clothing in his room while playing with matches Sunday morning, Charles, six-year-old son of Mrs. Sadie Miller, crawled under the bed and was suffocated before he could be rescued by firemen. Two rooms of furniture were destroyed at the G. Washington Smith boarding house, where Mrs. Miller is employed as a domestic.

After igniting the bedding the youngster is believed to have feared punishment and so crawled under the bed. He failed to remember a side porch roof to which he could have escaped by jumping from a window. When firemen arrived they were unable to enter the boy's room, for the flames had gained considerable headway. He was dead when removed.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Poles have sent an ultimatum to the Germans, demanding surrender of the city of Beutschen, it was reported in dispatches received yesterday in Copenhagen.

Twenty thousand Ukranians are besieging Lemberg, capital of Galicia. It is expected they will occupy the city today. Women are helping to defend the town. It is probable the population will be starved into surrender, as there is no food in the city.

Gen. Ludendorff, former chief of the German armies, announced his willingness to stand trial shortly after the armistice was signed, but the government permitted him to leave the country, according to the Dusseldorfer Nachrichten. The newspaper bases its information on a letter from Wilhelm Drencher, a friend of the general, who wrote: "On November 18 Ludendroff told the government he was ready to stand trial, but the government approved his going abroad."

News of the death of Theodore Roosevelt struck London forcibly late yesterday and made a deep impression. It was the chief subject of discussion everywhere last night. The late afternoon papers carried brief dispatches from New York in heavy type and some had pictures of the Colonel covering almost the whole front page. King George and Queen Mary, receiving the first news expressed the deepest regret. Their majesties, who were at Sandringham Palace, prepared immediaely to telegraph condolences to Mrs. Roosevelt, as they did at the time of Lieut. Quentin Roosevelt's death.

Private Robert C. Barthe, of Massachusetts, was shot and killed by a sharpshooter while other soldiers were trying to capture him at Jefferson Barracks, St. Louis, Saturday. Barthe had seized a rifle and opened fire on fellow soldiers, severely wounding Private Ralph Dewitt. Barthe, it is said, had served three years in the French Army, was wounded and returned home. He was among the first across in the United States Army but was court-martialed and returned to the United States, and was only released from Fort Leavensworth military prison, where he was serving a sentence of 40 years. It is believed he was temporarily crazed.

The four army airplanes, which left San Diego, Cal., December 4, on the first transcontinental flight ever undertaken, arrived at Washington yesterday. Landing was made at Bolling field, Anacostia. The elapsed flying time was 59 hours, the distance covered being estimated at between 3,600 and 4,000 miles. The machines which landed at the capital city are the same that started from the Pacific coast. The purpose of the flight was to locate landing places and to map a regular air route across the southern end of the country. During the flight from ocean to ocean twenty stops were made. Maj. Albert Smith commanded the squadron. The planes will fly to Mineola, N. Y., today or tomorrow.

AIRPLANES TO KEEP WATCH

Fleet Drops Wreathes Around Col. Roosevelt's Home.

Washington, Jan. 7.—Ten airplanes from Hazelhurst field, Long Island, flying in squadron formation, circled Sagamore Hill yesterday afternoon and dropped floral wreaths around Colonel Roosevelt's home, the War Department was informed by the commandant of the field.

Lieut.-Com. M. S. Harmon, commandant of Hazlehurst field also informed the department that an airplane watch would be maintained over Sagamore Hill day and night until the hour of the funeral Wednesday, one plane relieving another every few hours. Major-General Kenley, chief of the bureau of military aeronautics, will fly from Washington to Oyster Bay in an airplane Wednesday to attend the funeral.
